DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is responsive to communication filed on 04/27/2007. Claims 1-34 are pending, and have been rejected below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ims, et al (US 2002/0091533 A1), hereinafter "Ims", and further in view of Merrick.
3. The rejection of claims 1-34 presented in the Office action dated 12/28/2006 is hereby incorporated by reference.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 04/27/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
 - a. With regard to claims 1-34, applicant's representatives argue that Ims-Merrick fails to teach the logical routing of a message so that a service may act on said message without the message being physically delivered over a public network..

Applicant teaches that the act of routing a message (physically or logically) to a service can be thought of as an invocation of the service. The logical routing of a message is then the logical invocation of services. (Specification, para. [1094]).

Ims teaches clearly in paragraph [0070] the local processing of messages through the routing of messages between processes. Ims goes on to disclose a technique for invoking execution of such processes. Since the invocation of services described in Ims is local to a particular business partner's site, these invocations are not physically delivered over a public network.

b. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., a service acting on a message without the message being physically delivered to the service) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Applicant only claims allowing a service to act on a message without said message being physically delivered over a public network. Ims teaches this as shown above.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
